Uhuru means freedom!

As part of the 60th anniversary of Tanzania's independence, Mission OneWorld is organizing a German-Tanzanian song contest to celebrate. The contest starts in summer 2021 and ends with the submission deadline on December 31st, 2021. People aged 15 and over from Tanzania and Germany are given the opportunity to write a song on the subject "Uhuru means freedom". The best songs are published on an online platform and thus attract a great deal of public attention – the chance for every upcoming artist.

The key data

Starts August 2021 and runs until December 31, 2021. Individuals aged 15 and over or bands / groups can participate. One song can be submitted per participant. For valuation we need a visual version in the form of a video file, e.g. mp4, which can easily be recorded with the mobile phone in landscape format. Your video can be uploaded on the following platform:
<https://uhuru-freiheit.com>

The subject

Freedom is a subject, that concerns us every day. What means freedom to me? Is everybody exactly equally free? How do I deal with freedom? How free are we actually? When is our freedom restricted? What concerns young people when they think about their free future? What are their visions and plans? 60 years independence of Tanzania – 60 years free from colonialism. How does this freedom feel? How was it perceived back then? And how do young Tanzanian people feel today? What do people in Tanzania and Germany think about freedom? For the year of this special anniversary we want to focus particularly on the subject of freedom. Because one thing is clear: a person's freedom is a great good. To be able to live and live it is an elementary value.

The challenge

Write your own song on the subject “Uhuru means freedom”. An answer to the question what freedom means, a request to your fellow human beings, to love and live freedom and don't take it for granted. The hope that all people can live freely in the future and feel the same way.

The prize

Not all songs will end up being published on the platform. If your song falls under the top 16, you will win an upload to the platform. For technical and legal reasons we cannot offer monetary or non-cash prizes. But you get the chance, that people from all over the world discover and hear your music on this platform.

The jury

The jury consists of employees from Mission OneWorld. The jury will decide on the publication on various online channels.

Presentation of the selected songs

The awarded songs will be uploaded and shown as part of the digital exhibition on the subject of “Uhuru means freedom” in spring 2022. Of course, they are also presented / published via the media channels available to us (website / Facebook / YouTube / presswork). We are thinking intensively about further presentation and publication options.
